A MESSAGE FROM THE ASTROTWINS

DEAR READER,

What do you get when you cross a mer-person, an alien and a tiger-suited woman? Well, 2022's cosmic alignment, that's what. As we enter the third year of the Aquarian Decade, there's disruption on every dimension, from outer space to the deep sea to the heart of the disappearing forests and jungles.

This is the 10th Anniversary Edition of our yearly horoscope guide, we're proud and a bit stunned to say. Yep, we've been tracking cosmic trends since 2013, the first full year of the new Mayan calendar, when it was prophesied that life as we knew it would never be the same. (Little did we know how true that would be.)

Once again, it's time to change our stripes. The Lunar Year of the Water Tiger begins February 1, setting a softer tone than the past two Metal-ruled years. Empathy is back, with a dose of nurturing from the 6 Universal Year (2+0+2+2).

The 2022 stars still serve plenty of fierceness and fight! Unpredictability reigns supreme, carving space for innovations to emerge. With supply chains in disarray and systems shifting on every level, we've dubbed 2022 the Year of the New Abnormal.

So, come get weird with us! We might all be boarding a flight to Mars (or traveling interdimensionally to Pleiades) soon. Meantime, let's enjoy our earthly pleasures sustainably and responsibly.

Ophi & Tali

2022 THE NEW ABNORMAL

Nothing's been the same since the new decade began—and it probably won't ever be again. In 2022, we'll start getting used to this “new abnormal.”

As old systems break down, space for new ones emerge. Call it entropy: Nothing ever disappears but, like wood burning to ash in a fire, it does change form.

Astrologers have been sending up smoke signals since before this decade began. We observed that major planets were moving from classical Capricorn into avant-garde Aquarius and knew this would spark a seismic shift. Our 2022 Horoscope book even predicted a “black swan event” that would overturn the economy, supply chains and life as we knew it.

Two years later, the next evolution of humanity is calling. And, in a weirdly Aquarian way, it involves going backward and forward at the same time. Restructuring the way we “do life” is part of the New Abnormal.

While researching this book, we found a striking similarity between 2022 and 1962 in their planetary patterns. Sixty years ago, Saturn was also in Aquarius while Jupiter transited between Pisces and Aries. The Chinese Water Tiger ruled the Lunar Year, uniting empathy with strategy.

Impactful breakthroughs were a hallmark of 1962. New York City introduced its first automated subway car. Worldwide broadcasting debuted with the first transatlantic TV signal. Civil Rights activist James Howard Meredith was the first Black student to attend the University of Mississippi. Bob Dylan released his first album. Walmart opened its doors.

INTRODUCTION

The Jetsons aired, treating us to TV's pre-millennium interpretation of the Space Age. While we're still waiting for Elroy's flying jetpack to hit the shelves, the Musk-Bezos-Branson trio is sending civilians on rocketship rides. Today's A.I. gives Rosie the Robot, The Jetsons' machine-operated maid, a run for her Roomba. (Siri, search "sex robots." Wait—no, don't.)

The excitement of progress has swelled to high tide since 1962, warming our oceans in the process. As you'll read in the pages ahead, 2022 is both a year of reckoning and one that's ripe for ingenuity.

We don't have to stop innovating and creating—as if we could curb that human impulse! The challenge is to work with what we've already got, whether we're upcycling secondhand denim, reforesting acres of wildlife using permaculture or figuring out how to capture carbon from the air to achieve Net Zero by 2030.

There's plenty of support from the stars with such matters. The karmic South Node heads into resourceful Scorpio, alchemizing "trash" into treasure. Expansive Jupiter gets spiritual alongside boundary-dissolving Neptune in Pisces—then advances into trailblazing Aries, inspiring fearless action. Saturn and Uranus keep disrupting the system, drawing attention to disparities and helping us engineer innovative solutions.

Hoarding all the toys isn't cool on the Aquarian playground, but oligarchs and dictators may tighten their iron grips one final time as Pluto draws its last few breaths in Capricorn between now and January 2024.

Venus and Mars both have retrograde phases, echoing this "stick with it" sentiment in love. Rather than endlessly swiping the apps, 2022 wants us to assess our patterns, heal from traumas and forge deeper connections. Simultaneously, unconventional arrangements for loving and living (apart and together) continue making "relationship anarchist" a viable status.

We've got it all covered in the 2022 Horoscope—including an in-depth forecast for every zodiac sign. Here's to a decade of mapping the yearly stars together, and to many decades more. ✨

THE Inner PLANETS

IN 2022

SUN
MOON
MERCURY
VENUS
MARS

The inner planets are the faster moving heavenly bodies, nearest to the Sun (plus the moon and the Sun itself). United by their rocky cores, they include Mercury, Venus and Mars. Their journey through the zodiac shapes the intimate areas of our lives including family, friendship, love and sex. Because they hit on matters so close to home, astrologers refer to them as the “personal planets.” We’ve tracked their movements for you in 2022, to help you make decisions that are close to your heart!

THE MOON

THE MOON

THE MOON IN ASTROLOGY

The moon is the Sun's favorite companion, holding space for all the private matters el Sol doesn't care to shine a light on. These are things like our deepest feelings, secret desires, and the security blankets that we reach for to comfort ourselves. Home and family affairs, how we nurture others and what kind of caretaking we crave are also #MoonMatters. Our society is just starting to truly honor the importance of lunar topics, perhaps because they tend to fall into the archetypally feminine category. As the world grows to respect women's perspectives and issues, the moon's power is being felt more and more!

THE MOON

THE MOON IN 2022

The first new moon of 2022 is in Capricorn, setting a somewhat serious tone for our emotions this year. And it's probably a good thing! While Jupiter and Neptune shoot us off on flights of fancy, this new moon reminds us to touch down at base. There, we must weigh fantasies against our present-day realities. How will our new ideas affect the existing structures in our lives? What will the emotional impact be on our loved ones?

There's a goal-getter vibe to years that begin with a new moon in Capricorn! (It's a real contrast to years that begin with a wildly experimental and visionary Aquarius new moon, which is the only other kickstarter new moon that's possible, astrologically.) Career and family matters will be front and center. Be patient! The moon is "in detriment" in Capricorn, which is a more challenging position on the zodiac wheel. As such, it may take a minute to get systems working and the right players in place. While the process can be frustrating, make like the Capricorn Goat and keep forging ahead. This prestige-boosting lunar lift practically guarantees that your dreams will take shape, bringing material world success as a reward for your tenacity.

THE MOON

Planning WITH THE MOON

Each month, we complete a multi-phase moon cycle, as la luna disappears into the darkness of the new moon, then swells into a full moon two weeks later. During the weeks in between, there are quarter moons. While the moon doesn't "go retrograde" like Mercury or the other planets, these waxing and waning spells are just as important to track for planning each month. There are four eclipses in 2022, occurring as two solar (new moon) eclipses and two lunar (full moon) eclipses.

2022 NEW MOONS

New moons occur when la luna is perfectly positioned between the Earth and the Sun. As such, the "backside" of the moon is lit, and it becomes invisible from our view down here. Because everything goes dark, it's as if we have a blank canvas on which to create. In "nothingness" there is a sense of limitless possibilities. That is the gift of the new moon, a great time for setting intentions, making wishes, and taking the first bold step towards a new goal. We may actually start to see the first signs of these lunar requests two weeks later, when the next full moon on the calendar lights up the night skies.

Astro-geek fact: The new moon occurs in the same zodiac sign as the Sun each month.*

THE MOON

2022 FULL MOONS

It's harvest time! During a full moon, you reap the seeds that were sown six months prior during the corresponding new moon. These cosmic manifestation moments can be cause for celebration or major eye-openers. During this lunar phase, the moon is on the exact opposite side of the Earth from the Sun. That explains why it's such a brightly lit spectacle for us to enjoy—and why the full moon is always in the opposite sign from the Sun each month. Contradictions stand out in stark reality during full moons, which can stir up intense passion and fierce head-butting. You may realize that you're done with one path and ready to find whatever's next. No matter what, emotions and overall intensity will be amplified. Stay aware of how much energy you're exuding and how people are responding to you.

THE MOON

QUARTER MOONS

First Quarter Moon (Waxing)

The first quarter moon comes about a week after each new moon. This marks the halfway point between the new moon and the forthcoming full moon. Since the moon is waxing (growing fuller), it brings a reminder to pick up the pace and make sure that our actions match our words. After all, what's the point of making those new moon wishes if we don't actually do something about them? Grab the baton...but no need to burst into a full-on sprint! Since quarter moons are balancers, measured, thoughtful action is key (and haste makes waste). The first quarter moon is a stellar time to map out a plan and take the first few steps.

Third Quarter Moon (Waning)

The third quarter moon comes approximately a week after the full moon, as we are reaping and harvesting, but also winding down to the next new moon. This is a time for sorting the crops. Not every pick is a keeper! During this phase, we might shed a few elements that aren't the right fit. This curating process creates the right setting to help the true gems shine.

THE MOON

SOLAR ECLIPSES

Lights out! Solar eclipses take place during a new moon, when the Sun and moon converge at the same degree and zodiac sign on the ecliptic. As the moon passes over the Sun, it darkens the daytime sky, even changing the appearance of shadows. Equal parts eerie and magical, solar eclipses remind us that all that glitters ain't gold. Look in a new direction during a solar eclipse, because that's where opportunity lies. This can feel scary, since letting go of control will be necessary. Eclipses can also stir up buried desires, forcing us to acknowledge what we really want. Remember that change is inevitable! And it can be a beautiful thing once we finally surrender. These momentous new moons push us off the starting block and into new waters. But we have to move fast, since just like an eclipse, the manifestation period is both rare and brief.

In 2022, there are two partial solar eclipses—meaning the Sun won't be entirely shrouded. The first is in Taurus on April 30, then six months later, a second one arrives in Scorpio on October 25. These will impact the way we “do” money. While they are bound to bring new developments in decentralized finance and cryptocurrency, there could be crackdowns and regulations to contend with. The global economy overall may experience surprising shifts as we figure out how to support world citizens during the ongoing pandemic.

THE MOON

LUNAR ECLIPSES

Seeing red? Lunar eclipses transpire when the full moon opposes the Sun at the same degree of zodiac sign on the ecliptic. With the Earth sandwiched between these heavenly bodies, el Sol casts a shadow that slowly bleeds across the surface of the moon. (In fact, due to its reddish tint, a total lunar eclipse has earned the nickname of “blood moon.”) Lunar eclipses are prime time for doing shadow work and dealing with feelings we’ve ignored. Buckle up, buttercup! Situations could pivot abruptly or come to a sudden, unceremonious halt. If anything in your life is “eclipsed away,” here’s our advise: Stop chasing and give it some space. You’ll either manifest a better option or circle back to this later—after you’ve processed the lesson and evolved!

There are two lunar eclipses in 2022, and both are total lunar “blood moon” eclipses. The first one simmers in Scorpio on May 16, followed by the Taurus full moon on November 8. Power struggles can be explosive (and fascinating) near these days! Nefarious details may come to light, exposing hidden agendas, crimes and scandalous underground activity. Will it be shocking? Absolutely. Picking up the pieces could take a while, but with no-nonsense fixed sign energy (Taurus and Scorpio) helming the operative, these eclipses force us to deal with the facts and devise solutions that may require rebuilding from ground zero.

THE Outer
PLANETS
IN 2022

JUPITER
SATURN
URANUS
NEPTUNE
PLUTO

The outer planets include the gas giants—Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune—plus icy, rocky Pluto. Due to their slower-moving orbit through the zodiac, they shape larger trends. Since outer planet lessons take more time to work through, they shift the trajectory of your life in a major way that’s not always obvious at first. We’ve mapped out their movements in 2022 to help you plan your long-term goals.

URANUS

URANUS

URANUS IN ASTROLOGY

Uranus takes 84 years to cycle through the zodiac, visiting each sign for approximately seven years. Because of its longer span, it's considered a generational planet, shaping the mindset of an entire age group. Since Uranus governs society and collective consciousness, its transits shape mass culture.

Technology and scientific developments are directed by Uranus, and its zodiac sign placement reveals where we'll see great innovations. As the planet of societal interactions, it directs everything from cultural trends to humanitarian efforts. The ruler of communal, innovative Aquarius, this side-spinning planet wants us to “get weird” in the most delightful ways! On the flipside, its disruptive influence can lead to dystopian thinking. Either way, it's here to help us embrace change—the only true constant in life.

URANUS

URANUS IN 2022

On May 15, 2018, innovative Uranus, the planet of revolution, technology and rebellion, moved from firebrand Aries into conservative Taurus, entering the Bull's pen for the first time since 1942. Unconventional Uranus pushes for radical evolution and progress, while nostalgic Taurus upholds time-tested traditions, resisting change at every turn. This cycle, which lasts until April 26, 2026, has proven polarizing already.

Uranus only visits each zodiac sign every 84 years, electrifying the airwaves for about eight years and disrupting the status quo. Given the planet's abrupt nature, Uranus transits often announce themselves with a major event. The day Uranus transited into terrestrial Taurus, an asteroid the size of a city block nearly clipped our planet when it passed between the Earth and the moon. Luckily, it missed us!

In 2022, we reach the halfway point of Uranus' journey through Taurus, an ideal time to give ourselves a report card and correct course where needed.

Taurus' astrological rulership includes money, work, material objects, security, farming, the food supply, the arts and music. From cryptocurrency to sustainable living to 3D printouts from ultrasound scans, Uranus is giving this realm an extreme makeover. Since 2018, we've seen major shakeups in Taurus-ruled areas, which we'll continue to witness for another five years.

While a revolution in many of these systems is long overdue, a Uranus in Taurus transit is never comfortable. According to the principle of "essential dignities" in astrology, Uranus is in "fall" in Taurus—a weakened position since the energies are an awkward pairing. It's a simple energetic mismatch: Uranus governs the future while Taurus clings to the past.

URANUS

Until 2026, we are tasked with resolving this planetary paradox: Can we create much-needed progress without erasing timeless traditions that still hold value and utility?

Take, for example, the statues of historical figures that were toppled and names removed from public spaces (parks, schools, buildings) in 2020-21. Many of these commemorated men owned slaves or committed acts that would be considered heinous human rights crimes today. The storming of the U.S. Capitol and the insurrection of January 6, 2021, was another vivid example, amplified by the impending square (90-degree angle of tension) between Uranus and Saturn (in progress-driven Aquarius). The explosive Saturn-Uranus showdown will be felt through March 2022.

Is It “My Way or the Highway”?

Can we find a middle ground while Uranus is in Taurus? Will we make room for critical thinking and “media literacy,” or narrow the scope of information under the unconscious belief that ignorance is bliss? Unfortunately, much of the nuance that fosters connection and compassion across the aisle gets lost during this cycle. Combining Uranus’ rebelliousness and the Taurus tendency to be “right” at all costs—is it any wonder the world is so polarized and divided?

Such is the exquisite grappling match between Uranus and Taurus. We’re reminded not to throw the baby out with the bathwater, as the saying goes. Yet, we also have to acknowledge painful history, both in the context of its era and in step with where humanity has evolved today. The past and the future are all thrown together in a simmering stew, and that can be confusing at best. Since Uranus entered Taurus, people have dug in their heels. Revolts have taken on a bullish temperament, often one-sided and indignant.

URANUS

Economic Makeovers Afoot

Taurus rules the economy, and the term “Bull Market” has been getting quite the Uranian makeover. Brexit, which was underway at the start of this cycle, has been a prelude to shakeups of Wall Street, banking and monetary systems around the world. The U.S. spent the entire last Uranus in Taurus transit climbing out of the Great Depression, which ended in 1941, right as Uranus departed from Taurus. President Roosevelt also signed the U.S. Social Security act, providing unemployment compensation and pensions for elderly citizens.

This time around, emergency government relief was needed to prevent a total economic meltdown during 2020’s global shut-downs. Households under a certain income bracket received stimulus checks of $600 per person in two cycles. Businesses needing to cover operating and payroll costs were offered PPP (Paycheck Protection Program) loans, many of which were entirely forgiven. Stimulus checks and unemployment allocations of $600 per week found some folks earning more than they had from their former jobs. Meantime, cost-of-living data assembled by a team at MIT found that even a $15 minimum wage would not be enough for an average U.S. family of four to afford their basic expenses in 2021.

Interestingly, the Boston Tea Party took place during a previous Uranus in Taurus cycle, when demonstrators protested “taxation without representation.” In 2021, Representative Alexandria Ocasio Cortez brought demonstration fashion to the Met Gala, wearing a white dress emblazoned with “Tax the Rich” in red letters and carrying a handbag bearing the same slogan. Whether or not this is the answer, we can expect more protests and upheaval around the Taurus topic of daily income and wages.

At this writing, a movement to bring Universal Basic Income (UBI) to the United States is gaining momentum and “platform economy” workers

URANUS

(from your DoorDash delivery person to Twitch streamers to rideshare drivers) are organizing in algorithm-age labor movements to protest unfair penalties and policies from their app-based incomes, which can be destroyed by a single bad review or developer update. This collective activism, coined Decentralized Collective Action (DCA) by the Harvard Business Review, is giving rise to worker-led coalitions that spread awareness of their mistreatment through social media, online forums and even through their competitors.

From Cashless Transactions to Cryptocurrency

Taurus rules money, and since technological Uranus landed here in 2018, dollars have gone digital. Not only has there been a coin shortage since 2020, but cashless technology has made it easy to pay with the tap of a smartphone or the scan of a QR code. Mobile apps like PayPal and Venmo now allow transactions to take place in cryptocurrency.

Speaking of crypto...though the first (genesis) block of Bitcoin was mined back on January 3, 2009, it took over a decade (along with Uranus entering Taurus and Jupiter's return to Capricorn on December 2, 2019) before any kind of mainstream mass adoption seemed conceivable.

As Bitcoin reached its all-time high of around $65,000 in 2021, it became evident that the technology of money would be disrupted by the innovation of cryptocurrency and blockchains. Stories of surprise Bitcoin millionaires stormed the Interwebs. And just as surprisingly, many institutional investors joined the blockchain revolution—some enthusiastically and others with grudging reluctance.

URANUS

At this writing, Blackrock, the world's largest asset manager, has invested nearly $400 million in Bitcoin mining companies. As of February 2021, MicroStrategy has invested $2.171 billion, adding 90,000 Bitcoins to the company's balance sheet under CEO Michael Saylor's direction. In August 2021, JP Morgan CEO Jamie Dimon, a one-time Bitcoin skeptic who called the digital currency a fraud in 2017, quietly backpedaled and gave wealth management clients access to six newly created cryptocurrency funds. PayPal soon followed in November of 2020, allowing customers to buy, sell and hold crypto, including Bitcoin and Ethereum.

It's not just companies who are going all-in on Bitcoin. Countries are beginning to purchase for their treasuries, too. In 2021, El Salvador became the first nation in the world to buy Bitcoin and make the digital currency legal tender, doubtless initiating a domino effect of Bitcoin acquisition by other countries.

Unlike banks, which issue physical currency from a central authority, Bitcoin is entirely a virtual currency that operates on an observable, decentralized network, accessible to anyone with an internet connection. There is no central bank—or head banker—controlling Bitcoin with opaque accounting and questionable monetary policies. Transactions take place on a public database called a distributed ledger, which greatly reduces—or eliminates—the burden of a fee-charging middleman (in this case, the banks) to process, validate and authenticate transactions.

Because cryptocurrencies like Bitcoin have been created with limited and/or controlled supply capped by mathematical algorithms, they are more resistant to manipulation that erodes their purchasing power. Regardless of your risk appetite, technology has now reached an inarguable point of no return, disrupting, even toppling, our most deeply entrenched institutions of banking and “money.”

URANUS

Profits to the People

The peer-to-peer economy is thriving with equal-opportunity Uranus in down-to-earth Taurus. Companies centered on this model have helped keep people afloat during the instability of the past couple years. In February 2021, Airbnb reported that Hosts earned an impressive $1 billion during the pandemic. Etsy also thrived, bringing new business to makers and collectors while brick-and-mortar stores were shut down.

There are countless brokering apps like Airbnb now, which provide a safety net to individual sellers and consumers. If WFH has become a permanent way of life, you can turn your parked commuter vehicle into an income-generator by renting it out on an app like Turo. Road-trippers can test out #VanLife with Outdoorsy.com, which offers a fleet of RVs and kitted-out vans for vacationers who aren't ready to plunk down $80K for a Mercedes Sprinter (or devote every second of their spare time to installing a mini-kitchen and loft bed).

Automation has changed the in-store customer experience, too. With contactless checkout, former cashiers are now the IT department, fixing the register when technical difficulties arise—or checking I.D.s when an adult beverage is scanned. Interestingly, the last time Uranus visited Taurus it brought the invention of the first ATM machine and the physical shopping cart!

Gig Workers and Digital Nomads

Death to the cubicle? With indie-spirited Uranus in hardworking Taurus, the gig economy has grown and flourished. After 2020's work-from-home mandates, 11 million U.S. workers quit their jobs between April and June 2021, a trend now called The Great Resignation. Burnout and unhappiness were cited as key reasons for people leaving their corporate gigs. In the wake of this, companies are unrolling a flexible, hybrid workforce model, building teams comprised of both in-office and remote workers.

As A.I. replaces human labor, our relationship with money could also go through a massive shift. Out of necessity, people may adopt the barter system, or take up the “gift economy” that’s practiced at festivals like Burning Man. In this model, no cash changes hands, and goods or services are offered from a spirit of generosity. Wanna start a commune, anyone?

The Rise of Populism and Dictatorship

The worst manifestations of Uranus in Taurus can be bigotry, stubbornness and warmongering. Adolf Hitler, a Taurus, seized power just as Uranus was ending its last transit of Aries, and retained his dictatorial grip through the 1930s, while Uranus was in Taurus. Mussolini also came into power during the last Uranus in Taurus transit, spreading fascism.

Extreme right-wing candidates have been on the rise again, spinning propaganda through social media, slanted news outlets, populist rallies and cyber hacking. In the past couple years, Uranus in Taurus has provoked violent disruptors, many using technology to mobilize and plot public acts of terrorism or to spread messages of hate. With the Taliban back in rule in Afghanistan and attacks on voter rights and women’s reproductive health disrupting the United States, there’s more than a little nervous energy in the air as we enter 2022.

From Virtual Reality to Mixed Reality

Uranus in sensory Taurus is busy altering the way we interact with the physical and digital worlds. Think your VR goggles are all that? Olfactory engineering is developing ways to include smell, touch and taste from afar. This Uranus phase is taking the IoT (“internet of things”) beyond the “smart” house or driverless car. Perhaps we’ll trade swiping and scrolling for computerless computing, as our digital devices become one with everyday household objects.

URANUS

With Taurus ruling the throat, voice-activated devices will continue to make our lives easier, with a caveat. Siri, Alexa and Google Assistant are engaging you in a two-way conversation, recording every command you speak into the microphone. Since they know what music you listen to and what you put on your shopping lists, they can serve “suggestions” that many people find more creepy than convenient.

In September 2021, Tesla let owners request its Full Self-Driving software, which drew concern and criticism around the reliability of its safety features. Still, by the time Uranus finishes its transit through Taurus in April 2026, we anticipate roadways filled with automated vehicles—and who knows? Human drivers may be busy getting their pilot licenses so they can operate jetpacks and flying crafts!

Crypto-Art, NFTs & Music Rights: A Digital Revolution

With Uranus in aesthetic Taurus, art, literature and dance meet community activism and digital media (Uranus’ domain). To wit: The streaming music business has exploded in the past few years, with paid subscriptions and on-demand services growing to a $5.9 billion market in the first half of 2021. TikTok has turned dancing into a mass cultural phenomenon, with the 15-second uploads to prove it.

Nowhere are Uranus’ biometric fingerprints more evident than in the new genre of NFTs, which stands for Non-Fungible Tokens, a phenomenon disrupting the art-collection world. NFT technology allows a person to use their digital currency (at this writing, mostly Ethereum) to purchase ownership of a collectible digital asset, such as art, music or an audio file.

The craze for NFT art, also known as “crypto art,” took hold in early 2021, when Christie’s auction house sold a digital collage by artist Mike Winkelmann (AKA Beeple) for a jaw-dropping $69 million! The 41-year-old Wisconsin illustrator sparked an accidental frenzy when his piece, “Everydays: The First 5,000 Days,” became the third-most expensive work ever sold by a living artist at an auction, carving out a $400 million-plus market by the end of 2021’s first quarter.

So what makes these pieces, many of which are hackneyed and amateurish, so valuable? Digital rights. While most of these works can all be right-clicked and downloaded right to your desktop, an NFT purchase confers verified ownership of the piece. Essentially, it’s like the difference between owning an original Van Gogh versus an Ikea print of “Starry Night.” And because the buyer’s ownership rights are recorded on the blockchain, the lucky NFT investor might resell a digital artwork for an exorbitant price, cashing in on the virtual gold rush of this new phenomenon.

While skeptics predict that the NFT bubble will burst, the craze may be just warming up. Crypto art can be purchased on sites like Rarible and Nifty Gateway, a site owned by the Winklevoss Twins (of Facebook fame and creators of the crypto exchange platform Gemini), where you can buy, sell and store digital assets, from art to collectibles to games such as CryptoKitties, where players can collect, “breed” and trade virtual kittens. With tech-savvy Uranus in “It’s mine!” Taurus, the price of possession, whether virtual or real, has taken on a life of its own.

PLUTO

PLUTO

PLUTO IN ASTROLOGY

What skeletons are rattling in our closets? Where do we go “unconscious,” unable to see our role in a crisis? As the cosmic ruler of the underworld, Pluto’s impulse is to conceal. Projection is one of this planet’s favorite defense mechanisms. Whenever and wherever you’re pointing the finger, Pluto is probably at play.

Because of its chaotic and unpredictable orbit, Pluto will hover in a single sign for between 12-20 years. As a result, it is one of the planets that shapes generational trends. Pluto can be a destroyer, tearing down what is begging to evolve, forcing us to rebuild from the ashes. As a result, great innovations have been born during these cycles. But they are generally accompanied by grief, crisis and loss as we release the outmoded past.

Pluto’s extended cycles often begin with a massive, headline-generating event, but end with breakthroughs that transform an entire industry. Wealth may change hands as a result, resonant with Pluto’s penchant for power plays.

PLUTO

PLUTO IN 2022

On November 27, 2008, Pluto, the (dwarf) planet of alchemical transformation, shifted into Capricorn, the ruler of governments, corporations, the economy and all things “patriarchal.” Pluto only visits every zodiac sign once every 248 years, and it comes in like a wrecking ball. In mythology, Pluto rules the underworld, so there can also be a shadowy aspect to its dealings. It can bring out perverse or hidden scandals, showing us the shadow side of whatever it affects. But in the wake of all that, space is created for something new and improved to be born—like a phoenix rising from the ashes.

As Pluto winds down its tour of Capricorn, the backdoor dealings of the last 12 years are becoming very visible. In fact, 2022 is the final full year that this esoteric planet hovers in the Sea Goat’s sphere, since it will dart into Aquarius from March 24 to June 11, 2023, giving us a brief preview of its forthcoming 20-year stint.

Another highly significant event is happening for the dwarf planet in 2022: The United States is having its Pluto return. When the “land of the free, home of the brave” was born—or declared independent—on July 4, 1776, Pluto was parked at 27°33’ Capricorn. For the first time since then, Pluto will hit that exact same degree of Capricorn on February 21, 2022.

Pluto’s mission? To destroy what’s become outmoded and rebuild from the resilient remains. Talk about an extreme makeover! During the tiny powerhouse’s last visit to Capricorn in the 1770s, America’s Revolutionary War began and the U.S. Declaration of Independence was signed. Two and a half centuries later, global power structures have been rocked by the pandemic, leading many to question whether the end of the American empire (at least as we know it) is nigh. We will wait to hear Pluto’s proclamation in early 2022.

LOVE

This year marks a turning point you'll find both bittersweet and exhilarating. As you shed something you've outgrown—a limiting belief, an unhealthy dynamic or a relationship that's no longer a fit—you're creating space for a brand-new chapter in amour. Clarify your #LoveGoals while Venus is retrograde until January 29, then get into action. If you're making too many sacrifices or holding on to a fantasy, something's gotta give. Compromising your vision of love won't be an option when Jupiter swings into Aries and your autonomous first house from May 10 to October 28. Wipe the slate clean or engage your love interest in the fresh start you're aching for. Keep the rules a little flexible though! Lusty Mars (your ruler) takes a seven-month tour through variety-loving Gemini starting August 20, calling for more freedom and playtime. Free-spirited Rams could juggle multiple mates in the second half of the year.

CAREER & MONEY

New ventures, new techniques—Rams are breaking out of the box in 2022. Money moves could point you in unprecedented directions once the lunar nodes shift into Taurus and Scorpio (your financial axis) on January 18. With eclipses hitting these signs all year, stay on your toes and be ready to pivot at a moment's notice. Enterprising Jupiter makes its first visit to Aries since 2010-11! Raise your public profile by developing your passions while the horizon-broadening planet is in your sign from May 10 to October 28. Blaze trails and you could shape your industry, especially if you harness the power of community and technology to make your mark.

WELLNESS

Detox time! Tackle a bad habit right away. Quit smoking, clean up your diet, replace the endless coffee refills with hydrating beverages like green tea and aloe vera juice. Vibrant Jupiter returns to your sign on May 10, giving you a galactic glow-up. Raise your fitness game with adventure sports or a competitive challenge! With the South Node slinking into Scorpio on January 18, you can bring on the sexual healing! Balancing hormones may be the key to managing anxiety or sleep disruptions, so consider having your levels tested. Chiron, the “wounded healer” comet, spends its fifth of nine years in Aries (2018-27). This is a powerful cycle for discovering your own gifts as a healer. Simultaneously, you may be processing family trauma along with anger and grief you never fully metabolized. Pull back from triggering situations as needed. This is a great time to do the deep work with professional practitioners, both traditional and mystical.

FRIENDS & FAMILY

Serious Saturn is parked in mindful Aquarius and your communal eleventh house all year. Socialize with a purpose, whether you’re expanding your consciousness or mobilizing for a cause. Copious amounts of “me time” are a must, as Jupiter drifts between Pisces and your solitary twelfth house and Aries, your self-focused first. Plan nostalgic reunions during the pensive Pisces cycle, which lasts until May 10 and picks up from October 28 to December 20. Connect to mentors, meaningful relatives and friends who can see straight into your soul. When Jupiter zips through Aries from May 10 to October 28, your lightning-fast mojo returns. Get with fast-paced friends who are pursuing big dreams! It won’t be hard to identify them once your galactic guardian Mars zips into Gemini on August 20, supercharging your communicative, cooperative third house until March 25, 2023.

WHAT'S IN THE STARS FOR

TAURUS

LOVE

Karmic connections crop up in 2022 as the moon's South Node shifts into Scorpio, energizing your relationship house from January 18, 2022, to July 17, 2023. You could meet a meant-to-be mate or finish up some past-life business through a game-changing "situationship." Pay attention to who pops up near two partnership-powered eclipses on May 16 and October 25. Rather than searching for a twin flame, embrace the growth opportunities each connection brings. For the first time since 2003, the lunar North Node is in Taurus, granting you 18 months of self-discovery that can lead you into the arms of true love—or deeply enhance the bond you've already established. Romantic restlessness may find you roaming for greener pastures while your ruler Venus is retrograde in your exploratory ninth house until January 29. Some Bulls may reignite a spark with a long-distance lover or someone you met while traveling. Already locked into a relationship? This is the year to share adventures, from bucket-list vacations to couples' workshops that deepen communication and spark erotic engagement.

TAURUS

CAREER & MONEY

Career goals continue to be a huge priority as Saturn passes the halfway point of its journey through Aquarius and your success-driven tenth house (March 21, 2020, to March 7, 2023). Keep establishing your authority as a company (or industry) leader, even if you have to put in longer hours than preferred. Once the destiny-driven North Node enters your sign on January 18, the cosmic compass may point you in a new direction. But don't throw out the baby with the bathwater. Build upon the skills you have and see what surprise opportunities the two Taurus eclipses bring on April 30 and November 8. When go-getter Mars zooms into your money house on August 20, initiate and pursue financial opportunities. Then, hunker down to develop what transpires while Mars is retrograde from October 30 to January 12, 2023.

TAURUS

WELLNESS

Customize your fitness plan to suit your life, Taurus; otherwise, it may fall by the wayside. With Saturn in your achievement zone, track progress with an app and consider working with a trainer or private teacher to make sure you hit your goals. The North Node in Taurus stretches you out of your comfort zone, but that daring spirit could lead to an injury if you don't warm up and learn proper postures. (More reason to enlist a guide!) Roll out the yoga mat while high-minded Jupiter moves through your soulful twelfth house from May 10 to October 28. Dive into water sports, like stand-up paddleboard yoga or sailing. Motivator Mars helps you find a sustainable and pleasurable routine after August 20.

FRIENDS & FAMILY

Popularity soars in 2022! Play superconnector while expansive Jupiter in Pisces revs your team spirit until May 10 (and again after October 28). Bring people together but don't overcommit yourself. With the lunar North Node in Taurus, you need ample time to pursue your personal hobbies and crew-hop without feeling obligated to anyone. Two eclipses in Taurus, on April 30 and November 8, shift your direction. You may cut ties with one group to create space for another—particularly if your life goals are more in sync with the new crew. However, nostalgia will sweep through from May 10 to October 28, when Jupiter dips into your sentimental twelfth house. Reconnect to family and old friends. This is a powerful window for making amends and healing long-standing rifts.

GEMINI

GEMINI

LOVE

Romantically, the year begins on a reflective note and ends on a red-hot erotic one. Venus will be retrograde until January 29, a time to draw back from drama or dive deeper into the discovery of your partner's inner workings. Make sure to share your own, too! Vulnerability creates the runway for romance while Venus lingers here until March 6. Open up to boundary-pushing exploration once the North Node heads into Taurus and your twelfth house of fantasy on January 18. But first, disentangle from codependent patterns that are zapping the juice from your love life. Self-care is the key to sexiness, not overfunctioning to please your mate! Lusty Mars embarks on a long tour through Gemini from August 20 to March 25, 2023. Autonomy and agency are more essential than ever during this rare cycle. Give yourself a long leash! Flirting, dressing up and doing things that make you feel attractive are not the same as cheating. In fact, a little more freedom might save your relationship when Mars goes retrograde from October 30 to January 12, 2023.

CAREER & MONEY

Maximize the first three weeks of 2022! The destiny-driven North Node is wrapping up an 18-month journey through your sign on January 18. This cycle only comes around every 18-19 years, providing an unmatched opportunity to push past prior limits. Bold and audacious moves could set you up handsomely for the rest of the year—and with lucky Jupiter in your success sector until May 10—and again from October 28 to December 20—you are primed to climb any ladder you choose. Step into leadership and sharpen your skills. Powerful mentor figures can help you level up all year. Surrender to their tutelage and don't resist the "wax on, wax off" part of the process. With the karmic South Node in your efficient sixth house after January 18, use apps, reminder alarms and savvy systems to work smarter, not harder.

WELLNESS

Have yoga mat, will travel? With structured Saturn in your travel zone all year, fitness goals could lead you on long-distance adventures. Bike through wine country, hike distant trails, learn to surf on a new coast. Health is a major priority once the lunar nodes shift into Taurus and Scorpio on January 18. This 18-month circuit makes healing an inside and outside job. Create a routine that fits with your everyday life and integrates with your work. Sit on a medicine ball or put a balance board by a stand-up desk. Join a gym close to the office so you can take a class between meetings. Cleanse, detox, meditate. Look for ceremonies and holistic/therapeutic treatments that connect you to a higher power and help you access deeper parts of your subconscious. These may be especially potent near the eclipses on April 30 and November 8.

FRIENDS & FAMILY

Free time will be a precious commodity before May, so focus attention on your inner-innermost circle. Socializing one on one will be most enjoyable, allowing you to process all the transformations going on in your life. Just remember that friends are not therapists—and that a great counselor or coach can take the weight off your friendships. Jupiter's electrifying tour through Aries restores your social butterfly status from May 10 to October 28. Meaningful connections are a must, but you'll take them with a sense of humor and a solid squad of fascinating people again. You might even organize friends around active summer plans, like group hikes, long bike rides or a team fitness challenge. Explore voluntourism or join a charitable initiative near the eclipses on May 16 and October 25. People who share your values will be waiting to meet you!

CANCER

LOVE

Sexy is back for Cancers in 2022—and in a bold, head-turning way. The karmic South Node simmers in Scorpio starting January 18, greenlighting passionate PDA and erotic explorations galore. Plan nostalgic dates while Venus is retrograde January 1 to 29, or see what can be rekindled with “the one that got away.” Whenever possible, dress up and step out because you never know who you’ll meet this year. The eclipses on May 16 and October 25 could bring enviable power couple fantasies to life. If babies are on the agenda this year, get a fertility plan in place and give it a good go in the months of these eclipses. Attached? Step out often as a pair and enjoy every photo op you can. But don’t skip on the serious stuff. Structured Saturn is still in Aquarius and your eighth house of joint affairs all year. Get solid with your S.O. about your relationship status. Take that next step like buying property or writing your wills. Free-spirited Jupiter in Pisces brings truth, travel and transformation until May 10 and again from October 28 to December 20. Yes, you should have the talk—and how about having it in Portugal, Portland or Peru?

CAREER & MONEY

Can you make money while you sleep? Serious Saturn says, “Yes!” to passive income in 2022 as it streams through your investment-savvy eighth house. Whether you’re purchasing a rental property, learning about crypto or selling downloadable classes and products, think beyond the nine-to-five grind. But don’t rule out those corporate connections completely. Venturesome Jupiter rises into Aries and your professional tenth house from May 10 to October 28. You could land a lucrative gig, either as a contractor or hired gun. Keep the suitcase handy. You may travel for work while Jupiter is in Pisces before May 10 or from October 28 to December 20. Cancer media mavens could have a heyday. Time to write that book or start your style blog!

CANCER

WELLNESS

Good news! Vital, vibrant Jupiter is in its happy place (your ninth house) as it rolls through Pisces until May 10 and again from October 28 to December 20. Joyful movement is a must, whether you're dancing, horseback riding, or learning how to surf. Boundless Jupiter is the god of the feast and with your sign's love of epicurean delights, it's a little too easy to pack on the pounds. Follow the 80/20 rule: Stick to healthy, clean eating for the majority of meals and indulge as a regular treat! With Saturn anchored in your eighth house for one last full year, reproductive health is in the spotlight. Regulating cycles and hormone levels can lead to a more enjoyable sex life this year. When agitating Mars zooms into Gemini on August 20, you may be ready for a detox or cleanse. This seven-month cycle is ideal for deep inner work, perhaps with a shaman or craniosacral therapist.

FRIENDS & FAMILY

Who are the people far outside your neighborhood? Reconnect to far-flung friends and long-distance relatives in the early part of the year. You could cook up a visit or a collaborative project—both good reasons to get back in touch. Consider yourself the “crew glue” once the North Node heads into Taurus from January 18, 2022, to July 17, 2023. Find the right format for bringing some of the wonderful people you know together: book clubs, activist meetups, yoga in the park. Leave room for new recruits, who could arrive near the eclipses on April 30 and November 8. Mars heads into Gemini and your twelfth house of forgiveness for eight long months, starting August 20. With dedicated effort, you can move through a painful passage with a loved one.

WHAT'S IN THE STARS FOR

LEO

LOVE

Security check! Saturn weighs anchor in Aquarius, spending its final full year in your relationship house. While you long for certainty, you may feel equally reluctant to go “all in.” Circumstances (or distance) may prevent you and your amour from taking things to the next level. The good news is your sex life is not bound to suffer. Liberated Jupiter gets frisky in Pisces and your erotic eighth house until May 10 (and again from October 28 to December 20). You’re ready to experiment, with or without a partner. And when the red-spotted planet grooves into fellow fire sign Aries from May 10 to October 28, it might be you who is asking for space. Either way, this mid-year cycle brings out your wild side. Long-distance love affairs, cross-cultural connections and baecations? Bring ‘em on!

CAREER & MONEY

Destiny calling! Major career developments are in the stars beginning January 18, as the karmic North Node leaps into Taurus and your tenth house of success. If you’re doing what you love, this 18-month cycle adds polish and panache to your dreams. You may rise to new heights of leadership or establish yourself as an expert or influencer. Bound to a bad business model? Breaking free is your cosmic duty this year—especially when indie-spirited Jupiter zips into Aries and your entrepreneurial ninth house from May 10 to October 28. Ever dreamed of being a digital nomad or traveling for work? You could go “pro on the road” mid-year. Investments may pay off handsomely before May 10 (and again after October 28). Explore real estate, crypto and other passive income streams. When go-getter Mars logs into Gemini on August 20, get your tech skills up to speed before the year is through.

WELLNESS

Wellness resolutions top your 2022 priority list—which may start with undoing a few bad habits while Venus is retrograde until January 29. Beyond those unhealthy indulgences, has stress crept in? Calming exercises, like swimming and gentle yoga, can help you stay centered when the lunar South Node dips into Scorpio and your rooted fourth house. Dietary changes can also support serenity. Dial down the stimulants like sugar and caffeine and explore adaptogens like ashwagandha that can reduce anxiety and energize you. It might be worth it to get your adrenals tested. More than anything, “tending and befriending” can boost oxytocin levels. Get a support group in motion—literally—by combining cathartic conversations with a walk or hike!

FRIENDS & FAMILY

Home is where the heart is—but sometimes you need a breather from the people you love most. With the karmic South Node in Scorpio, you may feel restricted by obligations to a parent, child or another person who is pulling on you for caretaking energy. Stop trying to be a superhero and mobilize support. This is the year to connect to people who are at a similar stage in life. Buying or selling a home may be part of your domestic plan. Popularity soars when Mars powers into Gemini on August 20 and you could find yourself at the center of a buzzing crew. Missing your people? Get the band back together when the red planet turns retrograde from October 30 to January 12, 2023.

VIRGO

VIRGO

LOVE

Relationships get a major boost in 2022, thanks to lucky Jupiter's tour through Pisces and Aries—the signs ruling your 7th and 8th houses of committed partnership. Throw some of that Virgo caution to the wind and take a chance on romance. You could meet your match while traveling or by exploring a new zip code on your dating app. Cross-cultural connections could bring the missing spark this year. Coupled Virgos: don't be afraid to explore independent interests. A healthy dose of autonomy keeps the spark alive. Plan to take at least one bucket-list vacation together before the year is through. Clear the air—or the decks—while Venus is retrograde until January 29. If you're not on the same page about kids, life paths or another must-have, go your separate ways. Bonds deepen quickly while Jupiter is in Aries from May 10 to October 28—prime time for joining lives and making vows.

CAREER & MONEY

Keep on grinding, Virgo—your payoff is in sight! Taskmaster Saturn is hustling through Aquarius for its final full year. After putting you through paces since March 21, 2020, you can finally systematize, document your process and automate a few laborious tasks that you seem to repeat over and over. (Virgo heaven!) Embrace new partnerships wherever possible, as bountiful Jupiter brings favor and fortune to your collaborative efforts all year. With the lunar South Node in Scorpio and your cooperative third house after January 18, you and a kindred spirit could rake in the profits as a dynamic duo. Stability is exciting once go-getter Mars buzzes into your security zone from August 20, 2022, to March 25, 2023. Pour energy into building your nest egg: purchase real estate, funnel savings into a retirement portfolio, trim expenses. Make sure you have a cushion in place before Mars turns retrograde from October 30 to January 12, 2023.

VIRGO

WELLNESS

Scheduling is the key to sanity this year! In addition to work duties and a regular fitness regimen, block out time to rest and digest. With Saturn in your sixth house (AKA the Virgo house), your parasympathetic nervous system could use a break. The good news is, you can activate its calming powers with your sign's favorite pastimes: meditation, yoga, massage, walks in nature, deep breathing, spending time with kids and pets. Dial down the inflammation-producing foods like wheat and dairy and scale back the stimulants like coffee and sugar. Gut health is always key to strong immunity and this year, you may need to add more microbiomes to your diet—especially when agitating Mars hits your nutrition zone for six months on August 20.

FRIENDS & FAMILY

Spring free from that cocoon, Virgo butterfly! Your social life is set to soar as the lunar South Node anchors in Scorpio and your third house of friendship from January 18, 2022, until July 17, 2023. Forget random encounters though! This 18-month cycle is like a soul-squad reunion tour, reconnecting you to kindred spirits who you've clearly known in past lives. Get involved in your local scene: you could leave an indelible mark on your community! But don't get stuck in one place. The lunar North Node in Taurus spins your compass in a worldly direction. Connect with far-flung friends via social media and maybe an epic travel plan. Friction and home may intensify under Mars' watch after August 20—a prompt to change your living situation or learn healthier means of conflict resolution.

LIBRA

LOVE

Love takes a turn for the serious—and the seriously sexy in 2022. On January 18, the lunar North Node shifts into sensual Taurus, lighting a bonfire in your eighth house of seduction and intimacy. Erotic connection is a spiritual experience during this cycle, which lasts until July 17, 2023. But are you willing to let go and explore the depths of pleasure? With masterful Saturn in your romance zone, approach love and sex like a study. There's always more to unlock and having some tools and techniques under your (garter) belt wouldn't hurt a bit. When liberating, exploratory Jupiter soars into Aries and your partnership house, oh, the places you will go. But how will that insatiable curiosity affect the rest of your life? Daring to live by your own rules may require some negotiation before you go exploring. People may be more willing to play along than you expect, provided you include them in your plan.

CAREER & MONEY

Money moves could bring a bountiful harvest in 2022, as the lunar nodes redirect their energy to your financial axis (Taurus-Scorpio) starting January 18. The karmic South Node in Scorpio demands budgeting and planning. Restore integrity by settling debts and raising your rates if you're underearning. The Taurus North Node points you toward passive-income generators. This could be the year that you invest in your dream pad, crush it with crypto or get funding for your start-up. With serious Saturn in your fifth house of fame, focus on mastering your craft. Already a pro? You could get paid as an influencer, expert or motivational speaker.

WELLNESS

Go with your gut, Libra! Vitality-boosting Jupiter swims two laps through Pisces and your sixth house of digestion: until May 10 and again from October 28 to December 20. Hydration is the first essential step. Start your mornings with a cleansing shot of aloe vera juice and put an activating pinch of sea salt in your water bottle every time you refill it. Fermented foods that introduce health-improving microbiomes (like yogurt and kimchi) may become regular staples of your diet. Don't forget the power of sexual healing! Self- and partner-pleasuring, erotic massage and other titillating touch can be the best anti-depressant out there. If energy and moods are fluctuating, have your thyroid checked. With the lunar North Node in your second house (which rules the throat area), have your thyroid checked, especially if moods, metabolism and energy level are fluctuating. You may need to shift your diet, stress levels or supplement plan for optimal functioning.

FRIENDS & FAMILY

Family: can't live with 'em, can't live without 'em. Transformational Pluto is in the final phase of its 2008-24 tour through Capricorn and your fourth house of kin. The highs and lows are starting to smooth out as you carve out your unique role within your innermost circle. But with your ruler, accommodating Venus, retrograde in Capricorn until January 29, keep healthy boundaries in place. Couchsurfing relatives have to pull their weight; and make sure you aren't taking advantage of anyone's kindness. (Grandparents aren't "free babysitting services" every day...) Serious Saturn could bring some heavy obligations for Libra parents or stall conception. Stay committed and get scientific: a savvy system can change everything for the better. If long-distance friends ping you on WhatsApp after August 20, take orders from adventure-junkie Mars and find a way to visit each other ASAP!

This cycle, which only comes around every 18.5 years could bring a meant-to-be mate into your orbit or give you the courage to go “all in.” Relationships that have are puttering along on autopilot may undergo a massive shift. Self-discovery may be the catalyst for change, since the karmic South Node will be in Scorpio and your first house of identity. Sexy intensity (a Scorpio favorite) heats up when lusty Mars hits Gemini on August 20, stoking the flames of your erotic fire until March 25, 2023! Watch for jealousy and manipulative moves while Mars is retrograde from October 30 to January 12, 2023.

CAREER & MONEY

WELLNESS

Saturn is rooted in your fourth house all year, and you'll feel healthiest at home. This is the summer to grow your own food, then make fresh salsa for future #TacoTuesdays. Set up a workout area for streaming yoga, choreographing dance moves and lifting weights. Get ready for a total wellness reboot when vitality-boosting Jupiter swings into Aries from May 10 to October 28. Exercise in the great outdoors or combine it with travel. (Biking through wine country, anyone?) Pay attention to your root chakra, which is located at the base of your spine, in the tailbone area. Daily squats, pelvic floor exercises, even walking barefoot in the grass can strengthen and support this energy center. This will help you feel grounded during the karmic ups and downs of the South Node's tour through your sign, which can bring a lot of fluctuating feelings.

FRIENDS & FAMILY

With serious Saturn hunkered in Aquarius and your intimate fourth house all year, you'll appreciate the company of your "chosen family" as if they were your own flesh and blood. Reunite with precious pals while Venus is retrograde in your friendship house until January 29. Saturn may create heaviness with your actual relatives. You may move or relocate to support them—or to give yourself the space you need to heal from ancestral wounds. Jupiter's time is Pisces (until May 10 and from October 28 to December 20) is ideal for making babies or bonding with the kids you already have.

After two tide-turning years, relationships begin to stabilize again. Love goals may have fluctuated wildly since May 2020, when the destiny-driven North Node parked in Gemini and your committed partnerships zone. Meanwhile, the Sagittarius South Node put you in its karmic crosshairs, forcing you to deal with your own unhealthy patterns.

(Have you changed your status to “relationship anarchist” yet?) That all changes on January 18 as the nodes move to Taurus and Scorpio. Slowly but surely clarity resumes, making it easier to determine next steps.

This 18-month cycle demands tough, “adult” choices which may bring loss or grief. In the process, you could manifest a spiritual soulmate—or discover ways to reconnect with the one who is already in your life.

Romance gets red-hot (and fun again!) when your ruler, buoyant Jupiter, soars into Aries and your passionate fifth house from May 10 to October 28. No dragging your feet once energetic Mars kicks off a six-month tour through Gemini on August 20! Make your move or you might miss out—especially if an old flame is rekindled while Mars is retrograde from October 30 to January 12, 2023.

CAREER & MONEY

You work hard for your money, but is your money working hard for you? Profitability is the keyword to focus on in 2022. Reassess spending habits while Venus is retrograde in your financial zone until January 29. If certain indulgences are zapping your security fund, tighten up your budget. Managing your workload will require clear-cut processes once the lunar North Node heads into Taurus on January 18. But with the South Node in your twelfth house of release, start letting go of time-zapping tasks that aren't bringing a healthy ROI. This “safety net” might be keeping you stuck in an underearning cycle. Get your branding and front-facing materials up to snuff! The spotlight swings your way from May 10 to October 28 when lucky Jupiter races through your fame zone (Aries) and brings widespread attention to your work.

SAGITTARIUS

WELLNESS

What are you digesting—literally and emotionally? If you've been stuffing down stress with food or pushing yourself past the point of exhaustion, the planets blow a loud whistle. From January 18, 2022 to July 17, 2023, the North Node points its compass towards Taurus and your sixth house of healthy routines. Commit to regular workouts—even if you have to hire someone to show you the ropes or hold you accountable. Jupiter in Pisces sounds the call for hydration and gut health until May 10 (and after October 28). Try a short-term juice cleanse; get active on the water or near it! Shedding toxic beliefs is as important as detoxing your diet, so work with a therapist who can shift your mindset in a positive direction. Speaking of detoxing, sweating is one of the best ways to release harmful substances and get blood flowing to your organs. An infrared sauna could be a life-changing splurge.

FRIENDS & FAMILY

With your ruler, free-spirited Jupiter, in your domestic zone until May 10 (and again from October 28 to December 20), you could take “home” on the road! Grant yourself greater independence from family during these cycles—without shirking obligations, obviously. Nesting Archers could score a lucky real estate deal or finally take on renovation projects that turn your house into a home. With the South Node in Scorpio, you might steep yourself in therapeutic work to break up family patterns. Learn the difference between nurturing (which empowers people) and caretaking (which zaps your energy and leaves others feeling helpless). Setting healthy boundaries is the key to creating a harmonious home.

CAPRICORN

LOVE

Fate is on your side as the lunar North Node spins into Taurus and your fifth house of true love this January 18. This cycle, which lasts until July 17, 2023, could bring a passionate partner into your orbit. But no playing cool! The fifth house favors full-bodied romantic expression. Drop your guard and show your feelings. Giving your all is the secret to getting it back in return. Developments accelerate during two eclipses in Taurus, on April 30 and November 8. But stay flexible! These moonbeams may direct you in an exciting (but unexpected) direction. Venus will be retrograde in Capricorn until January 29, starting the year in an introspective space. Examine unproductive patterns that keep people at a distance. Then, lean into magnetic Pluto, who's winding down a long cycle through your sign (2008-2024). Your hidden charms are ready to be revealed—and we're talking about the bedroom, not the boardroom, here. Leave work at work!

CAREER & MONEY

Your diligence is starting to pay off, Capricorn, as your ruler Saturn spends its final full year in Aquarius and your second house of cash money. Set up systems to work more efficiently and lock down bread-and-butter income. You may still be paying some dues this year, but people are taking notice of your work! Position yourself as an expert, speaker or leader however you can. Profitable opportunities could flow in near the eclipses on April 30 and November 8! Enterprising Jupiter sails through your curious, cooperative third house until May 10 (and again from October 28 to December 20). Tap into local networking opportunities and partner up on projects for the win. You may commute between several cities during this time, or work with clients around the world. Build your nest egg while Jupiter in Aries drops roots into your domestic zone from May 10 to October 28. Invest in a home or vacation property or start a kitchen-table side hustle. Work gets busier than ever starting August 20, thanks to go-getter Mars in Gemini and your sixth house of daily routines and systems. Stay organized and seek service providers who meet your standards!

WELLNESS

With the karmic South Node in Scorpio and your metaphysical eleventh house, mindfulness practices are the key to your serenity. Center yourself with meditation, yoga and breathwork. This can also activate life force energy, giving you the sexiest glow-up. Saturn's been putting you through paces since late 2017. Are you exhausted yet? Get your adrenals checked and make sure you're doing things to support their function. You'll be ready for a more vigorous fitness routine once athletic Mars barrels into Gemini on August 20. You love a challenge, but take time to stretch and learn proper posture and technique to avoid injuries. Regular bodywork like massage and acupuncture can keep you balanced all year long.

FRIENDS & FAMILY

Develop meaningful connections—then bring the gang together. The more will be the merrier this year as the Scorpio South Node activates your communal eleventh house. If there are fractures in your social circle, you can only play ambassador for so long. If people aren't willing to let go of grudges, that's on them. Jupiter in Pisces provides a huge popularity burst until May 10 (and again from October 28 to December 20). While old friends are your world, expand the radius of your circle! You could meet new pals while traveling, doing self-development work or taking a class. Looking to start or grow a family? Two fertility-boosting eclipses on April 30 and November 8 are in your corner!

AQUARIUS

AQUARIUS

LOVE

Schedule those date nights! If you don't, they might not happen. With hardworking Saturn finishing up its final full year in Aquarius, love may again take a backseat to personal developments. Nothing wrong with flying solo or "doing you." But with Jupiter in your sensual second house until May 10 (and again from October 28 to December 20), affection and companionship would sure be nice. Venus is retrograde in your twelfth house of forgiveness and healing until January 29, a powerful time for processing pain around a past relationship—or working through resentment in an existing one. Wild times are ahead though! Lusty Mars swings into Gemini and your passionate fifth house for an extended six-month tour starting August 20. If your mojo's been in slow-mo, it will come roaring back—and when the red planet turns retrograde on October 30 (until January 12), fading embers could become blazing fires again.

CAREER & MONEY

New responsibilities at work could spell money in the bank. With brave Jupiter expanding your earning potential, it's safe to take a few more risks—like requesting permanent WFH status or spearheading a new initiative. Going back to school (or taking a few classes) can position you for higher pay. Easy does it on the spending though! Expenses could balloon if you aren't careful. With the karmic South Node in Scorpio and your career zone, face down your fear of success. This 18-month cycle, which lasts from January 18, 2022, to July 17, 2023, could reveal your hidden talents to the world. Ch-ching! You might quietly work on a project that isn't ready for a public reveal. Leap on any golden opportunities that may arrive with the eclipses on May 16 and October 25!

AQUARIUS

WELLNESS

Feeling stiff, Aquarius? Blame it on stodgy Saturn who is parked in your sign for one more year. As the ruler of bones, skin and teeth, you may spend more time at the chiropractor, dermatologist or dentist this year. Get on the ball with prevention. Yes, there's a reason they told you to stand up straight and floss. With the North Node in your nutritional zone, the link between food and mood will be obvious. You may switch up your diet, opting for anti-inflammatory foods or trying something like keto or intermittent fasting. A multivitamin and other doctor-advised natural supplements can ensure that proper nourishment gets to your cells!

FRIENDS & FAMILY

While stoic Saturn may find you craving long spells of alone time, forget about being a hermit in 2022. With Jupiter zipping into Aries from May 10 to October 28, a huge popularity spike is in store. You'll feel more outgoing than you have in years—and the local scene could serve up a spate of new BFFs. When the North Node joins your ruler Uranus in Taurus on January 18, you might reconnect to an important family member or make some exciting changes to your living situation that align with your life purpose. If you aren't moving, you might be building. Can you say "project?"

PISCES

PISCES

LOVE

Catch you if they can! Free-spirited Jupiter is bookending the year in Pisces, taking a wild ride through your adventurous first house until May 10 and again from October 28 to December 20. Pining and fantasizing are kind of your thing, but this year could find you on the receiving end of all that adoration. Flattering though it may be, don't let a good one slip away while you're reveling in the ego boost. Love should be reciprocal, Pisces, and you need mates and dates to support your interests this year. You may feel in a hurry to settle down (and maybe start a family) when energetic Mars barrels into Gemini and your domestic zone on August 20. This six-month cycle includes a retrograde, from October 30 to January 12, 2023, so careful about rushing to put down roots. In a relationship? Expand your horizons as a pair, traveling, taking workshops and connecting to your spiritual and philosophical interests.

CAREER & MONEY

How can you bring more autonomy and independence to your work? With liberated Jupiter in Pisces, then Aries and your money house (May 10 to October 28), you're highly self-motivated this year. Although you won't take kindly to a rigid boss breathing down your neck, Saturn could bring a powerful mentor your way who guides you down your life path. Travel may figure into your workflow this year, or you could work with remote clients. Study, too! With the karmic South Node in Scorpio and your ninth house of education as of January 18, this could be the year to finish a degree or get a specialized certification. A hot real estate deal could land in your lap any time after August 20. Spend the early part of the year getting finances sorted. Raise your credit score, prep paperwork and look into mortgage pre-approval. With so much luck on your side, you might as well be ready to leap!

PISCES

WELLNESS

Exhale! Disciplined Saturn is on its final full year in your meditative, healing twelfth house. Since March 2020, you've been processing heavy issues—and finding all the enlightenment a Pisces lives for. This cosmic cleanse continues until March 7, 2023, so you might as well dive in. Detox your diet, sanctify your sleep and see a hypnotherapist if you're struggling to reach the far corners of your psyche. You might even train as a healing practitioner, or work closely with a therapist, shaman or holistic specialist. Vitality-boosting Jupiter will give you more energy than you've had in years. Enjoy the rush and if you're trying any daring sports, wear a helmet!

FRIENDS & FAMILY

Your 2022 paradox: How to participate in a crew without feeling pinned down. Indie-spirited Jupiter in Pisces will find you flowing more freely than you have in years! But with the destiny-driven North Node in Taurus and your friendship house, you'll fall in love with people again. Get involved in the local scene. Meeting your neighbors and connecting to area businesses will give you a sense of belonging that you'll enjoy...that is, when you're actually home. Family bonds may strain when agitating Mars hits your house of kin on August 20 for six months. But this may be the wakeup call you need to finally sort out your differences. Watch out for guilt trips and pity parties, Pisces. There are far more effective ways to express your feelings.

SUN-URANUS TRINE

Raise the bar on resolutions! The year is off to an electrifying and inspirational start as the confidence-boosting Capricorn Sun gets charged by the practical magic of innovative Uranus in Taurus. There's one clear directive this NYD: Think outside the box. (Supremely daring souls might ditch the box altogether!) This visionary trine blasts away limitations, revealing what else is possible. If you begin a conversation with, "Wouldn't it be crazy if...?" you're on the right track!

MERCURY IN AQUARIUS

Let the brainstorming begin! Savvy Mercury initiates its first of two trips through quirky, collaborative Aquarius, bringing out the mad scientists in us all. During this experimental transit, getting everyone on the same page could be as easy as herding cats. But as long as everyone has a clearly defined role in the "lab," team efforts will soar. With activism awakened by social Mercury in Aquarius, now's the time to connect to causes, both in person and via social media. Upgrade technology, software and apps before Mercury turns retrograde mid-month.

Supermoon!

CAPRICORN NEW MOON

JAN

The first new moon of 2022 plants its flag in achievement-minded Capricorn. As resolutions take root, make sure you're playing a big enough game. Could you elevate your vision? Challenge yourself to go farther? This ambitious lunar lift rewards risks, as long as they are well-calculated. And thanks to a trine from innovative Uranus, your ambitions could involve a cutting-edge methodology that you never considered in the past. Pro tip: Rather than scattering energy in multiple directions, radar in on one (or two) epic goals that you want to achieve by mid-year. Then, tap a mentor, accountability buddy or coach to help you manifest them into reality. With tech-savvy Uranus in the frame, make sure you're up-to-date on apps and best practices. By summertime, you could be toasting a massive win!

Are you willing to go the distance in love? Today's new supermoon in tenacious Capricorn could get you excited about the idea of building something long-term. We all bring special gifts into this world and this lunar lift amplifies pride in our achievements. Rather than listing the qualities you long for in a mate, clarify your "offerings." What do you want to provide to a relationship (present or future)? Once you claim your superpowers, you'll naturally attract someone who appreciates what you bring to the table. When plotting out love goals, don't be afraid to write your own script. With game-changing Uranus trine the new moon, your reinvented vision of love could break the mold.

SUN-VENUS MEETUP

Did you let a good one slip away? Forget to celebrate an important moment with your true love? Today's meet-up of the Sun and back-spinning Venus could bring a fateful second chance. Nothing flashy required here—in fact serenades and skywriters could come across as disingenuous. With these planets in salt-of-the-earth Capricorn, it's a heartfelt commitment that will make the difference. If you could promise something "better" for the future, what would it be? Before you unleash any declarations, check in: Can you make good on the promises? With Venus in reverse until January 29, make sure that you're sure this time.

WAXING QUARTER MOON IN ARIES

Don't wait for anyone to pass you the ball. Today's waxing quarter moon in self-starter Aries rewards initiative. Nothing grandiose is required under these moderating moonbeams. Just take an action that will nudge the needle in the right direction. It may be as simple as replying to a text, making a call or asking friends to recommend a great service provider. Get proactive in relationships, too. How do you want things to go next? This quarter moon helps you speak truth to power. And once you do, it will be clear who is on the same page and where you may need to negotiate more balanced terms.

MARS-NEPTUNE SQUARE

It may seem fun to take a gamble today, but that's a slippery slope. Unless you have the facts in front of you, hedge your bets! With the most active planet (Mars) at loggerheads with the most passive one (Neptune), you could take yourself on a wild ride of impulsivity and skewed intuition. Go back to the drawing board and do some quality research. Don't assume that a "maybe" is a "yes" until you've 100 percent confirmed it. Moreover, don't let anyone sweet talk you into making decisions, especially if they involve a financial transaction.

JAN 14
- FEB 3

MERCURY RETROGRADE IN AQUARIUS & CAPRICORN

Even the best-laid plans require more time at the drawing board over the coming three weeks. As strategic Mercury pivots into its first retrograde of the year, it reverses through innovative Aquarius (until January 25), then mission-oriented Capricorn. Back up all electronic data and devices, which are susceptible to damage from Mercury's mayhem. Group interactions require more democracy and well-defined agreements. Is everyone clear on their marching orders? Are there unspoken resentments to air? Pause to inspect and correct. Since this retrograde can muddle your message, proof all emails and presentations before hitting send—and don't go rogue on social media! If a project hits a speed bump, use this "forced timeout" to perfect your plans. Then unveil them after the retrograde.

16

SUN-PLUTO MEETUP

What's stewing beneath the surface? As the revitalizing Sun shines into subterranean Pluto's vault, it could reveal everything from well-kept secrets to your own hidden superpowers. If you've been lowkey about your accomplishments, come out and let the world see what you're made of! But be warned: As egos flare and intensity runs high, there's a lot to navigate—and do so with kid gloves! With these luminaries meeting in ambitious Capricorn, it's a great day to align with an influential VIP or decision-maker. Could they lend support to a project or open doors on your behalf? If you don't ask, you don't get!

NUMEROLOGY

UNIVERSAL YEAR

A large, bold, black number '6' is positioned on the left side of the page. It is a simple, sans-serif font with a thick stroke.

*In Numerology,
each calendar year
adds up to a single-digit number, which holds a unique energetic influence & imprint.*

We all feel this energy, and it's called the Universal Year.

A Universal Year means that everyone on the planet will experience the energy of a particular number during the entire year, from January 1 through December 31.

Whether or not you make New Year's resolutions, most of us intuitively feel a profound energy shift whenever the calendar turns. In Numerology, that transition is a pivot point, marking the passage into a new Universal Year—the collective atmosphere of the world for a 12-month period. Everyone on the planet will feel the energy of a particular number during the entire year, and each number comes with its own unique resonance or theme.

NUMEROLOGY

So while 2022 is a 6 Universal Year, it carries a strong “2” resonance.

The energy of the 2 is all about patience, partnership and diplomacy. This peacekeeping number is highly sensitive and in tune with other people’s emotional landscapes.

In numerology, 0 is an intensifier. Whenever a 0 shows up, it amplifies both the optimal and the challenging aspects of the number with which it’s co-mingled. So what does this all mean?

KEY CONCEPTS OF A 6 UNIVERSAL YEAR

HOME

RELATIONSHIPS

SERVICE

RESPONSIBILITY

FAMILY

VISION

In Numerology, the number 6 is the energy of nurturing. It emphasizes relationships, following through on obligations, taking on responsibility, and savoring home and family. There’s something innately self-sacrificing about the number 6.

NUMEROLOGY

As we bridge from the freedom-seeking energy of the 5 Universal Year in 2021, we're collectively given the opportunity—and the mandate—to turn our focus outward. The 5 opened the door for us to bask in self-indulgence. Now the winds of change blow the weathervane in a different direction as we head into a more “attend to others” Universal Year. What's best for the collective, rather than just the individual?

When you look at the number 6, it resembles a little pregnant belly. The 6 year is truly pregnant with possibilities when the focus is on visionary plans, service to others and justice for all.

Since service is a key theme now, get ready to ramp up your caretaking and protective efforts. In the personal sphere, this might mean beautifying your surroundings and strengthening bonds. Globally, this could spotlight issues such as mitigating the climate crisis. Perhaps we'll enter our post-pandemic world with fresh resolve to make a difference and take accountability.

Since the pandemic disrupted lives around the globe, in the 6 Universal Year we'll collectively experience the need to feel settled, nested and “at home,” along with the desire to nurture our relationships.

THE ZERO FACTOR

Let's look at the added dimension of the “0” in “2022” and how it will impact the 6 Universal Year.

Numerologically, this year layers the empathic and harmonious number 2 as if it's a beautifully designed cake—with rich, butter-creamy love infused between skillfully baked, rose-flavored sponge.

2022

*LUNAR YEAR OF THE
WATER TIGER*

THE LUNAR ZODIAC

Year of the Water Tiger

Let it flow! The decade's first two years were all about building infrastructure. In 2022, it's time for creativity, innovation and deep insights.

The Year of the Water Tiger

February 1, 2022 to January 31, 2023

Ready to flip from day to night? On February 1, 2022, the systematic Metal Ox passes the yoke to the instinctual Water Tiger. The industrious Ox muscles through duties from sunup to sundown. The clever Tiger hunts at night. Morning people could morph into nocturnal creatures under this roaring transformation. Regardless of your prime productivity hours, get ready to change your beat. The Ox takes its orders from Saturn, the stern and disciplined taskmaster of the skies. Tiger, on the other hand, downloads cues from free-spirited Uranus, a planet whose main mission in life is to disrupt “the system.”

There is a link here, however. Both Saturn and Uranus are the co-rulers of Aquarius—and it's the Age in which we are living. Need more proof that 2022 is the Year of the New Abnormal? Stalking through the Water Tiger's jungle is a trek through uncharted terrain. Or make that a swim. After a pair of back-to-back metal years (2020-21), water cascades across the landscape of the next two. Let it go and let it flow.

THE LUNAR YEAR

Water years (which end in 2 or 3) restore fluidity to our lives. Sweet relief! Rigid rules apply during metal years (any year ending in 0 or 1), which can make people feel fenced in and controlled. Metal puts the focus on data, infrastructures and financial security. In a true example of #MetalYearProblems, banks had a coin shortage over the past couple years, due to the rising rate of virtual transactions. And while Bitcoin's value soared, savvy investors also added gold and silver to their portfolios—safe bets at a time where fiat currency's future seems to be so uncertain.

There will be many things “in flux,” over the next couple years, in fact, which is the nature of this element. Water flows freely, shapeshifting from frozen to liquid to invisible gas. Seemingly solid situations may go up in smoke, then hover overhead like inescapable cloud cover before raining down again. Paradoxically, the Uranus-ruled Tiger longs to break free from structure. Yet, without a container, water spills everywhere and dries up. Want to be as strong as a rushing river? Carve out your “banks” (i.e., boundaries) and unblock dams (as in, go-nowhere situations).

Have you marked your turf? Wild tigers are territorial creatures, spraying their scent and scratching their claws into trees to stake their claim. In 2022, access to fresh water could be a primary cause of political uprising and wars. Record droughts and floods threatened farming and utilities
